

Victory Pageant Prelude To Opening of the Season

Never in the History of New York Society Has There Been Such a Brilliant Affair Preceding Premiere of Metropolitan as Ball Thursday at Waldorf

PROBABLY never before in the history of New York society has there been such a brilliant and picturesque affair arranged for the week preceding the official opening of the social season as will take place on Thursday night at Waldorf-Astoria. It will be a victory ball and historical pageant to be given under the auspices of the various New York posts of the American Legion for the benefit of disabled soldiers. The affair has enlisted the active co-operation of some of the most prominent members of society and will be a notable entertainment.

The pageant will precede by four days the premiere at the Metropolitan Opera House and the exhibition of the National Horse Show Association, both beginning on Monday next.

President Harding is honorary chairman of the ball and pageant committee, and the list of patronesses is headed by Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. William Kinnick, Draper and Miss Ruth Morgan.

Cooperating with these women and Miss Isabel Lowden, sister of the former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, creator of the pageant and chairman of the committee for its presentation, are prominent men and women of the stage. The patriotic allegory called "America" portrays the various periods of American history prior to the Revolution, laying emphasis upon the development of the spiritual qualities in the people which underlay the events depicted. The closing tableau represents the Allied victory.

Many of the distinguished foreigners now in this country in connection with the disarmament conference, which opens in Washington on Friday, will be in attendance, and the foreign ambassadors at Washington either will be present or will have representatives at the ball.

The executive committee in charge includes Walter Scott, chairman; Samuel E. Dribben, treasurer; and Miss Anne B. Duncan, secretary. The honorary members of the Victory Ball committee are the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the ambassadors of Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy, Rear Admiral S. M. Major General Robert Lee Bullard, Major General John A. Lejeune, U. S. M. C., and John G. Emery, of the American Legion.

Mrs. William Collier has been executive chairman of the committee on arrangements. After next week, with the first days of the opera over and the end of the horse show, the debutantes will hold the center of the social stage and there will be a constant round of entertainments given in their honor. After the holidays, Mrs. Gordon Crawford and Miss Kathleen Crawford will give a luncheon on Monday, November 22, for Miss Clara de Rham, the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles de Rham. Miss de Rham was one of the "duis" present at the ball given at Tuxedo a week ago Friday and for whom her mother gave a large dinner previously to the dance.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman Hoyt will give a small dance on Wednesday, November 23, in the ballroom of the Colony Club, for Miss Helen Phelps Hoyt, through the courtesy of Mrs. Stokes Halkett.

About the only debutante affair of the week will be a dance which Mrs. Norton Goddard is giving in the ballroom of the Colony Club on Saturday for her daughter, Miss Sylvia Goddard.

Albert Morris Bugh's musicale morning will begin on Monday, December 5, at the Waldorf-Astoria. These affairs always are fixtures of the New York social season and attract society in large numbers. The other dates are December 12, 19 and 23 and January 9, 16, 23 and 30.

Edith Jacquelin Smith Bride of John Meyerkort

The wedding of Miss Edith Jacquelin Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Jacquelin Smith, and John Meyerkort took place yesterday afternoon at St. Bartholomew's Church, with the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks performing the ceremony. The bride's gown was white satin, with a long pointed court train, with which she wore a tulle veil with an insert of rare old lace that had been worn by the mother of the bridegroom at her wedding. The bride's hairnet was a shower of lilies-of-the-valley and white orchids. Autumn was suggested in the coloring of the gowns of the bride's attendants. The maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Jacquelin Smith, wore a gown of two shades of blue chiffon, with a large brown velvet picture hat trimmed with a long drooping ostrich plume of a lighter shade of brown, and carried a bouquet of feathery gold chrysanthemums; the bridesmaids, Mrs. George W. Van Sicken, Miss Marjorie Taylor, Miss Helen Goodwin, Miss Eleanor Stevenson, Miss Angelsea Hewlett and Miss Mercer French, were gowned alike in flame-red chiffon with a touch of orange on the corsage and skirt and brown velvet hats duplicating that of the maid of honor. Their bouquets, Chandler Bates served as best man and the ushers were; Holbrook Cushman, Oakley Brown, Robert Fiedler, James Livingston, Carol Simpson and Samuel Disbrow. A large and brilliant reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, at 36 West Fifty-third Street.

A wedding of social importance which took place yesterday afternoon was that of Miss Therese Leshner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lawrence Leshner, and Joseph Fahys Cook, of New York. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Robert S. McArthur in the Presbyterian Church at Rye at 4 o'clock, and was followed by a large reception at the home of the bride's parents, The Cedars, at Port Chester. The bride wore a white satin gown trimmed with pearls embroidered on net, and her veil was of rose point lace which had been in possession of her grandmother. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and gardenias. The two small sisters of the bride, Constance and Emily Leshner, wore the flower girls, and wore dainty rose-colored frocks. The matron of honor, Mrs. Francis L. Everett, was gowned in mauve brocade velvet and chiffon of the same shade, and the gowns of the other attendants, Mrs. William H. Leshner, Mrs. Frederick Allen, Miss Martha Keep, Miss Dorothy Connor and Miss Elizabeth Boland, represented chrysanthemum shades in the ensemble, the colors individually being mauve, pale rose and golden yellow.

Harry Cook served his brother as best man, and the ushers were Howard Davis, Reginald Livingston, Francis Cook, Robert Leshner Jr., Horton Jiams, Milton Boulton, Howard Downey and Ray Bigelow.

Innovations Are Planned At National Horse Show

For First Time in History Tea Room Is To Be Run in Connection With Exhibit at Squadron Armory; Patronesses Include Many Leaders; Decorations Unusual

WITH the removal of the forthcoming show of the National Horse Show Association, to be held next week, from its old site in Madison Square Garden to the new armory of Squadron A, at Ninety-fourth Street and Madison Avenue, another innovation in the career of the association goes into effect. For the first time in the history of the organization there is to be a tea room run in connection with the show, which will represent a joint benefit. Exhibitors and visitors will find it a welcome convenience in a locality not largely given over to restaurants, and the net proceeds from the week's patronage will be devoted to the cause of the unemployed.

Society Cast to Offer "Murder on Half Shell"

Miss Grace Henry Selects Players; Algonquin Grieg Supplies Melodrama

The cast has been selected by Miss Grace Henry for the melodrama "Murder on the Half Shell, or Buckets of Gore," written by Algonquin Grieg, which will be given for the benefit of the Junior Auxiliary of the Manhattanville Day and Night Nursery and will be held at the Plaza on Tuesday evening, November 22.

Those who will have leading parts in the play are Miss Virginia De Haven, Miss Grace Hendrick, Miss Eleanor Towne, Miss Christine Nichols, Miss Marjorie Hughes, Miss Dorothy Schiff, Robert Butler, J. Berry Underhill Jr., Robertson L. Cleveland, Louis Owens Jr., Meredith Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Van Henry Cartmell Jr.

Tickets for the performance may be obtained from Mrs. George A. Soper Jr., 130 West Fifty-seventh Street.

Miss Slater has charge of the decorations, and for the armory, with its baroque top sloping down to the sides, he has found inspiration in the surroundings at Mount Vernon. At the Madison Avenue end of the building is to be a part reproduction of the house at Mount Vernon looking across the Bowling Green to a schoolhouse. Mr. Slater has set up the schoolhouse at the Park Avenue end and is going to utilize one of the walls for the scoreboard. There are two arcades, one of which will be devoted to the tea room. The interior of the latter is to be done in two tones of yellow and blue, with wall pockets for trailing ivies. Reginald C. Vanderbilt is giving his annual luncheon in this setting.

For the rest, the interior is to be decorated with laurels accentuating the outdoor effect, a green hedge to extend around the entire oval from the Washington's corner of arms is to top the schoolhouse, and enormous standards reproducing the American flag of 1777, surmounted with blue glass stars, are to be stationed at effective intervals. One large grandstand and two smaller ones, it is expected, will equal the seating capacity at Madison Square Garden, the new armory is enormous, extending, as it does, from Madison to Park avenues.

General Pershing

The size of the arena at the show will permit the holding of many spectacular and thrilling events calling for the utmost in good horsemanship. The entry for the Grafton broad jump, always one of the contests that rivet the attention of the throngs, is unusually large this year and in keeping with the increase in entries, which total about 2,200. Not since 1913 has the National Horse Show been assured of the finest of equine specimens in such numbers.

With an additional width of fifteen feet and length of ten feet the arena will permit the driving of four-in-hands under actual road conditions, and there will be the teams of Judge William H. Moore, Franklin B. Jordan, R. Lawrence Smith and Mrs. Louie Long Combs, who has imported several harness horses especially for this competition.

The hunter and jumper classes have filled well, and this division will be further strengthened by the army entries, including two famous jumpers belonging to General John H. Pershing. The Squadron A Cup, valued at $500, will provide one of the features of the show, for the conditions call for a miniature endurance contest between two days. The contestants have to jump over a series of obstacles, including the Grafton broad jump.

Mrs. Walter H. Hanley's Driftwood, Belvedere, Jockey McKay's Chetokoe Princess, Mrs. E. E. Tod's wonderful English mare, Scepter, and Samuel Keller Jacob's pair, My Delight and Kentucky Colonel, are represented in the saddle horse section. All told, it looks like the return of the good old days at the National Horse Show.
